

John Slyne

Vice President of International Operations at Ancestry.com

John is a strategic and accomplished Senior Finance leader with a passion for all things Tech with expertise in start-ups as well as growing and scaling high performing teams. He has proven experience in acquisitions, IPO's and successful sale of a Nasdaq listed company. He also has extensive experience in corporate US, Europe and Asia with an in depth knowledge of all business markets.

As VP of International Operations for Ancestry.com, the world's leading online family history resource, John strategically leads the International management team and oversees the International business of Ancestry.com. John is responsible for driving the success of the International operations with accountability for Business Performance, Finance, FP&A, Analytics, Customer Services, Legal, Product Management & Development. He was the first employee hired in Ireland and has since built up a team of over 75 in a new International headquarters and has also played a major role in the international launch of AncestryDNA.